INTRODUCTORY NOTE BY MR. EDERHEIMER

When the 17th Century Portrait Engravings which I had purchased from Mr. Junius S. Morgan were being sold I stated that which had long been in my mind, namely, that it was my earnest desire to relinquish as far as possible, that part of my business which had to do with the private sale of other than original drawings by the Old Masters, to which, during the past few years, I have been devoting the more considerable portion of my time.

The more thought I have given to this desire, the stronger has become my inclination to make an earnest effort to carry it into effect and I shall try to explain here as briefly as possible the reasons that have prompted me to my conclusions and caused me to consign to the American Art Association for absolute and unrestricted public sale, the most important part of my collections of old engravings and etchings.

Not every art lover needs to be a dealer, but every art dealer should be a lover. A real lover cannot help being a connoisseur after devoting the greater part of his life to his favorite pastime. An art loving dealer should never acquire a bad print. It should not require the skill of a good salesman to sell a good engraving. Good pieces of art—especially engravings, as to which there exists such wide literature and reference material—should take care of themselves as far as their selling is concerned. With drawings it is a different matter. Here is a new field for this country where some interesting pioneer work can be done in a branch which is the most fascinating of all for the real lover of art.

It will undoubtedly be considered a strange confession for an art dealer to state that he dislikes nothing as much as the selling end of his profession, but such it is with me, at least so far as engravings are concerned. I frankly admit that I consider myself a very poor salesman. I have never tried to win the patronage of a visitor whose confidence I instinctively felt lacking. I become cross when people at my galleries say that they consider Zorn a greater etcher than Rembrandt, discourteous when some art novice declares Dürer's works as "punk," and impatient with the collector whose fad is wide margins or perfect conditions, irrespective of excellence of impression or rarity of the print itself.

These being my feelings I naturally welcome the opportunity of disposing of my engravings in a manner other than my doing the actual selling.

Some of my friends have said "Is it not too great a risk for you to offer your property at public sale, unless you can protect yourself at the sale?" To this I have replied as I believe, and that is that I have absolute confidence in the American Art Association and that through it will be afforded me as good and safe an opportunity for disposing of good works of art as any individual dealer can have; and it is with this idea in mind that I have willingly pledged myself to refrain from any protection whatever and to permit my collection to be disposed of absolutely and without restriction.

The idea of having an art-loving public, collectors and dealers pass judgment upon my conclusion is fascinating and should they not uphold my opinion I shall still rest content and feel that I deserve the resulting loss.

In preparing the catalogue of my collection I have had the hearty support and assistance of the Association in setting forth the items in a more scholarly or scientific manner than is customary, not that the idea is new, for the excellent catalogue and introductory note of Mr. H. C. Hoskier, whose collection was dispersed by the Association in 1914, follow the general scheme used by me, and that is to make the catalogue something like an illustrated handbook showing the development of the art of engraving from the early Niello through all its stages to the end of line engraving in the early part of the 19th Century. To make this little "History of Engraving" as complete as possible, I even went into the market and acquired a few specimens which I thought important links so as to round out my material and fill those gaps which private sales had naturally caused.

In addition to my own collection I have also consigned to the Association as the authorized representative of their London owner and acting under his consent and instructions some twenty-four prints in color of unusual brilliancy and exceptional interest; that I have consented to the inclusion of these color prints in my catalogue and that they be exhibited and sold with my own prints is due not only to my desire to accommodate the owner thereof, but also because I think that they are of the very highest quality and should be of great interest to those art lovers who would be attracted by my own material.

The catalogue starts with the early Italian engravings, showing those interesting first specimens of art, the Nielli, in four rare and unusual pieces. Besides the very fine Mantegna plates, mostly from the Junius S. Morgan collection, are found rare pieces by Jacopo de' Barbari, Mocetto, Nicoletto da Modena, Zoan Andrea and others. The German school of the great period (Dürer, of whose work 36 fine plates are shown) is preceded by some 15th Century masters, headed by Schongauer, whose finest plate is shown here in an extraordinarily brilliant impression. The Italics of the 16th Century are well illustrated, especially by 20 selected pieces of Marc-Antonio, from two famous collections. These are followed by an unusually rich collection in itself representing that interesting class of engravings on wood in Chiaroscuro.

Etchers of the 17th Century, with Rembrandt, Ostade and others, are preceded by a miscellaneous number of engravers and etchers of the earlier part of the century, with interesting specimens by Goudt, Umbach Van de Velde, Hollar, Leoni, Ribera, etc., and French etchings by Callot and Claude.

There is an interesting series of Dutch portrait engravings showing amongst other works by Delft, Suyderhoef and Cornelis Visscher. These are followed by the French portrait engravers of the great period, dominated naturally by Nanteuil, who is represented by some 30 plates.

The schools of the 18th Century, both French and English, are especially rich in the representation of engravings in color, both as far as mezzotints and stipple engravings are concerned. The collection closes with a small selection of some of the finest line-engravings of the early 19th Century in unusually brilliant impressions. Interest in this kind of engraving has much declined within the last fifteen years, but I feel confident that full justice will be rendered to these extraordinarily beautiful representatives of a lost art.

In the description the states and conditions of impression have been faithfully stated, occasional defects have been conscientiously mentioned and exaggerations carefully avoided.

The illustrations do not by any means attempt to reproduce all of the finest items of the collection, as it has been manifestly impossible to do more than give representative examples, and with but little attention to the color prints, a reproduction of which in black and white gives so little idea of their true beauty of form or color.

RICHARD EDERHEIMER.

Conditions of Sale

1. Any bid which is merely a nominal or fractional advance may be rejected by the auctioneer, if, in his judgment, such bid would be likely to affect the sale injuriously.

2. The highest bidder shall be the buyer, and if any dispute arise between two or more bidders, the auctioneer shall either decide the same or put up for re-sale the lot so in dispute.

3. Payment shall be made of all or such part of the purchase money as may be required, and the names and addresses of the purchasers shall be given immediately on the sale of every lot, in default of which the lot so purchased shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

Payment of that part of the purchase money not made at the time of sale, shall be made within ten days thereafter, in default of which the undersigned may either continue to hold the lots at the risk of the purchaser and take such action as may be necessary for the enforcement of the sale, or may at public or private sale, and without other than this notice, re-sell the lots for the benefit of such purchaser, and the deficiency (if any) arising from such re-sale, shall be a charge against such purchaser.

4. Delivery of any purchase will be made only upon payment of the total amount due for all purchases at the sale.

Deliveries will be made on sales days between the hours of 9 A. M. and 1 P. M., and on other days—except holidays—between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M.

Delivery of any purchase will be made only at the American Art Galleries, or other place of sale, as the case may be, and only on presenting the bill of purchase.

Delivery may be made, at the discretion of the Association, of any purchase during the session of the sale at which it was sold.

5. Shipping, boxing or wrapping of purchases is a business in which the Association is in no wise engaged, and will not be performed by the Association for purchasers. The Association will, however, afford to purchasers every facility for employing at current and reasonable rates carriers and packers; doing so, however, without any assumption of responsibility on its part for the acts and charges of the parties engaged for such service.

6. Storage of any purchase shall be at the sole risk of the purchaser. Title passes upon the fall of the auctioneer's hammer, and thereafter, while the Association will exercise due caution in caring for and delivering such purchase, it will not hold itself responsible if such purchase be lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed.

Storage charges will be made upon all purchases not removed within ten days from the date of the sale thereof.

7. Guarantee is not made either by the owner or the Association of the correctness of the description, genuineness or authenticity of any lot, and no sale will be set aside on account of any incorrectness, error of cataloguing, or any imperfection not noted. Every lot is on public exhibition one or more days prior to its sale, after which it is sold "as is" and without recourse.

The Association exercises great care to catalogue every lot correctly, and will give consideration to the opinion of any trustworthy expert to the effect that any lot has been incorrectly catalogued, and, in its judgment, may either sell the lot as catalogued or make mention of the opinion of such expert, who thereby would become responsible for such damage as might result were his opinion without proper foundation.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Buying or bidding by the Association for responsible parties on orders transmitted to it by mail, telegraph or telephone, will be faithfully attended to without charge or commission. Any purchase so made will be subject to the above Conditions of Sale, which cannot in any manner be modified. The Association, however, in the event of making a purchase of a lot consisting of one or more books for a purchaser who has not, through himself or his agent, been present at the exhibition or sale, will permit such lot to be returned within ten days from the date of sale, and the purchase money will be returned, if the lot in any material manner differs from its catalogue description.

Orders for execution by the Association should be written and given with such plainness as to leave no room for misunderstanding. Not only should the lot number be given, but also the title, and bids should be stated to be so much for the lot, and when the lot consists of one or more volumes of books or objects of art, the bid per volume or piece should also be stated. If the one transmitting the order is unknown to the Association, a deposit should be sent or reference submitted. Shipping directions should also be given.

Priced copies of the catalogue of any sale, or any session thereof, will be furnished by the Association at a reasonable charge.

ANDREA MANTEGNA

Born, Vineenza, 1431; died, Mantua, 1506. In his work for the first time engraving became monumental, and it is probable that he had a great effect upon Dürer. Mantegna's engravings remained the model for all subsequent artists in upper Italy until the time of Marcantonio Raimondi; that is to say, until the influence of the German school, and especially of Dürer's technique, gave to the development of engraving in Italy a new direction.

Bartsch: Hind: Ottley, II. page 507.

The contemporary copy according to the above authorities, Ottley considering it the earlier original, probably lightly engraved on a softer medium than copper,—possibly pewter, as the unusual burr of this print leads to such conclusion. Early impressions showing the burr are of the utmost rarity, only a few being known. SUPERB EARLY IMPRESSION IN GREENISH GRAY INK, WITH MUCH BURR. With restorations and repairs in several spots. ZOAN ANDREA

"Most of the prints by this engraver are marked with the letters 'Z.A.' of which no one had been able to give a satisfactory explanation until the Abbé Zani informed us that in the Venetian dialect these letters signified Zoan (Giovanni) Andrea. Nothing is known of the life of this able engraver. His prints prove that he imitated the technique of Andrea Mantegna and it appears that several among his engravings were done after designs by that great master; it is certain that he copied several of Mantegna's prints. He also copied several prints by Albrecht Dürer, among them The Carrying off of Amymone, the original of which is dated 1516. This goes to show that the prints of Zoan Andrea belong less to the fifteenth century than to the first decades of the sixteenth."—BARTSCH.

20. CHRIST BEARING THE CROSS. Painter-engraving.

Bartsch VI. No. 21.

75<sup>00</sup>

The Large Plate. One of the few greatest Masterpieces of engraving, in a magnificent early impression. Like all the large plates of the period, this print has been creased and slightly restored, but it is perfect on the face, and according to Dr. Friedlaender of the Berlin Museum and other high authorities, is one of the finest impressions in existence. In such a state of preservation this plate is one of the greatest rarities known.

This impression has another feature which adds to its importance and interest. Bartsch states that Schongauer, on account of his attractive appearance, carried the sobriquet Hipsch (handsome) and refers to a note of that character on a painting by Burkmaier. Karel van Mander, the Dutch Vasari, calls him,—Hupse Marten. This impression bears on the reverse in a handwriting which has been declared by the experts of the Vienna Imperial Library to be "Dutch of the XVth Century", the inscription,—“A (or U ?) M. va Hubsche Marten.”

From the H. F. Sewall Collection.

21. SAINT THOMAS. Painter-engraving.

Bartsch IV. No. 44.

45<sup>00</sup>

Very fine early impression, inlaid in a modern margin. This print is not cut down, as some may think, on account of the fact that the spear-point the saint holds seems to be cut off. The plate never contained the entire spear.

From the Junius S. Morgan Collection.

ALBRECHT DÜRER

Born, Nürnberg in 1471; died there 1528. He was of Hungarian descent; his father coming from the little village of Eytas in Hungary. In 1486 Albrecht entered the studio of Michael Wolgemut, the best Nürnberg painter of that day. He worked there four years, and then spent several others traveling about, probably for the most part in Germany. During this time he visited Colmar in order to see Martin Schongauer, only to find that the great master had died shortly before. He returned to Nürnberg in 1494, and his works from that date until 1505 belong to what is called his First Period.

In the autumn of 1505 Dürer undertook a journey to Venice. With his return in 1507 begins the Second Period of his work, and in it the influence of the art of Italy can be distinctly traced.

In 1520-21 Dürer was in the Netherlands and the works from that time until his death in 1528 comprised the Third Period of his work.

"Albrecht Dürer fills a large space in the history of art. So far as Germany is concerned he is facile princeps, unrivalled even in his own age by so great an artist as the younger Hans Holbein, and towering above all his successors, no one of whom can raise a head high enough to look him in the face. . . . Although it would seem that it was Dürer's ambition to excel as a painter, it is as an engraver that he has won his fame and taken so sympathetic a grasp of the human heart."—LIONEL CUST.

"In this combination of etching with engraving, Lucas van Leyden has a follower in an Antwerp artist whose identity has only recently been established, Dirick Jacobszoon Vellert (Dirick van Star), as he has been called, from his signature. This point of contact, their close connection in style, and the fact that Vellert's earliest etchings are dated 1522, when Lucas was in Antwerp, seem to show that Vellert was inspired, if not instructed, in this sphere of art by Lucas van Leyden himself. As a designer of glass windows, Vellert had been at work in Antwerp for a decade before he turned to engraving."—HIND.

ITALIAN ENGRAVERS OF THE XVTH CENTURY

MARC-ANTONIO RAIMONDI AND HIS SCHOOL

MARC-ANTONIO RAIMONDI

Born in Bologna about 1480; died there about 1530. Started work in the atelier of Francesco Francia. The antique had from the first a very strong fascination for him. About 1505 Raimondi came under the strong influence of Dürer, and made a series of copies of The Life of the Virgin and other woodcuts. He had now reached (1509) a degree of sureness and technical mastery of engraving which had not been attained up to that time in Italy. In 1509 or 1510 he went to Rome. At just this period he seems to have been much influenced by Lucas of Leyden. Shortly after coming to Rome he entered the studio of Raphael, and it is with Raphael's name that Marc-Antonio is associated most closely in the history of engraving. To Raphael he owed, above all, the ennobling of his artistic feeling for form and the astonishingly rapid development of his ability in drawing. There has been of late a tendency to minimize the importance of Marc-Antonio as an engraver, and his plates have been in less demand than usual. In former days they often commanded prices exceeding those paid for examples of Dürer and Rembrandt. This decline in valuation, aside from the fact that Marc-Antonio worked mostly from conceptions of other artists, may be due to the circumstance of there being so many mediocre impressions in the market which do not do justice to the skill of this master. Good impressions are exceedingly rare, and it is not often that such a representative lot of material as the one here exhibited is offered at unrestricted public sale. With one or two exceptions, these prints come from two celebrated collections,—that of the late Dr. Engelmann, of Leipzig, and that of Junius S. Morgan, the last-named furnishing the greater number.

WOOD-CUTS IN CHIAROSCURO

UGO DA CARPI

Member of the noble family Panico, born about 1486, and said to be the inventor of wood-cut in chiaroscuro. This claim is only correct as far as those plates of more than two blocks are concerned, which eliminate the line-work entirely, and try to produce the effect of a water-color painting. Woodcuts from two blocks, viz: a black line plate and a tone plate with white high-lights spared out, were in use in Germany before Ugo's first plate, and were made by Wechtlin, Burgkmair and others.

CARPI, UGO DA

HENDRIK GOLTZIUS

Born, Mulbrecht, 1558; died, Haarlem, 1616.

"Among his own countrymen Cort's breadth of style was best appreciated by Hendrik Goltzius, who came under the influence of his school in Rome. Unfortunately, like most of his contemporaries, he suffered from the mannerisms of his models—Spranger, Stradanus and the host of pseudo-classicists—but he was happier than the majority in his assimilation of some of the true character of classical art. His large 'Massacre of the Innocents' reveals some real sympathy for the ideals of Michelangelo. The delight he takes in rendering swelling curves, be they as bombastic as they will, is irresistible. The 'Standard Bearers' is a magnificent example."—HIND.

Born, Leyden, 1607; died, Amsterdam, 1669. Pupil of Swanenburch and Pieter Lastman. "The opinion among etchers which enthrones Rembrandt as the King of his craft is the most recent instance of perfect unanimity among people of all nationalities. As we all say that Phidias was the greatest sculptor, Homer the greatest epic poet, and Shakespeare the greatest dramatist, so we are all agreed on the world-wide supremacy of Rembrandt. In his own lines of work there is no one in all history to be compared with Rembrandt; in artistic influence he has one equal entirely unlike himself, and that is Raphael. They are the two most influential graphic artists of all time."—P. G. HAMERTON.

Charles Sumner says of him:—"Younger than Nanteuil by ten years, Gérard Edelinck excelled him in genuine mastery . . . Longhi says that he is the engraver whose works deserve the first place among exemplars, and attributes to him in the highest degree,—design, chiaroscuro, aerial perspective, local tints, softness, lightness, variety,—in short, everything which can enter into the most exact representation of the true and beautiful without the air of color . . . He went to London about the same time as MacArdell, and established himself near Drummond's, at Charing Cross, from which address he issued some of his most successful productions after Rembrandt and others.

JOHN RAPHAEL SMITH

Born, Derby, 1752; died, Doncaster, 1812. "About 1767 he came to London, and, it is said, first engaged himself as a shopman, but soon entered on the career of an artist. He practiced painting extensively, and drew with great spirit. A very considerable number of his prints are from his own designs and pictures, yet he was most successful in his renderings of the works of Gainsborough, Reynolds and Romney. The prints published by him between the years 1775 and 1787 are, nearly without exception, among the most admirable productions ever executed in mezzotint."—CHALONER SMITH.

"Among all the engravers the art of mezzotint has produced, J. R. Smith is perhaps the most skilful and accomplished. His scraping has all the strength and vigor of a man who is complete master of his craft, while his training as a painter enabled him to add to his touch the true feeling of the artist."—ALFRED WHITMAN.
